These results are in agreement with the results of other studies on the effect of the type of the substrate on the growth of the microorganisms. The results of the present study show that the growth of the microorganisms is significantly higher in the substrate with a high lignin content than in the substrate with a low lignin content. This is due to the fact that the lignin content in the substrate is a major factor affecting the growth of the microorganisms. The results of the present study also show that the growth of the microorganisms is significantly higher in the substrate with a high lignin content than in the substrate with a low lignin content. This is due to the fact that the lignin content in the substrate is a major factor affecting the growth of the microorganisms.
