Grantee hereby agrees as a condition of obtaining the right of way easement described herein to relocate Grantor's barn and tack room from its present location to the proposed location as indicated in the above map. Grantee agrees that after said relocation, the barn and tack room will be in good usable condition, including but not limited to, an elevated moisture free floor surface of either cinders or some other suitable material; in addition, Grantee agrees to construct a road from the highway for ingress and egress to said barn as relocated, using such suitable materials as to allow for the use by Grantor of heavy farm equipment and trucks over said roadway.

In the event it is impossible or not feasible for whatever reason to relocate the existing barn structure and tack room, Grantor agrees to construct a new barn in the proposed location above of the same size and equal utility (i.e. stalls and tack room) subject to the same conditions regarding floor surface and road access as stated above. Said construction to be done in a workmanlike manner and in a manner so that Grantor's hay will not be damaged. Grantee further agrees to transfer Grantor's hay from the old barn to the new barn or relocated barn.

All of the above to be done at no expense to Grantor, and in the event Grantor suffers any damage, Grantee agrees to reimburse and indemnify Grantor for any such damage caused by its negligence or by any breach of the terms of this agreement. In the event of breach herein, the parties agree that the prevailing party in any litigation will be entitled to such reasonable attorney fees as the court may fix.
