1. The first of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the United States is now living in urban areas. This is a result of the process of urbanization, which has been going on since the beginning of the 20th century. The population of the United States has increased from about 100 million in 1900 to over 200 million in 1950, and this increase has been largely due to the growth of the urban population. The urban population has increased from about 50 million in 1900 to over 150 million in 1950, and this increase has been largely due to the growth of the urban population. The urban population has increased from about 50 million in 1900 to over 150 million in 1950, and this increase has been largely due to the growth of the urban population.

"In addition to the existing of one more or less of such persons. The idea of offering any assistance to persons who are not themselves in need of such assistance is not only unbecomingly self-interested, but it is also unbecomingly unchristian. It is, therefore, necessary to stop at once all of this kind of work. The persons in this organization must be directed to the service of persons who are actually needy, and the valuable services of our members in this field be the primary goal of the organization. Hence, we are now of the opinion that
