4 After the Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior, was established, the management of land and water rights on the public domain was transferred to the Department of the Interior. The Bureau of Land Management was created by Executive Order in 1892, and its functions were defined by the Organic Act of 1897. The Bureau of Land Management is responsible for the management of the public domain, including the disposal of land and water rights. The Bureau of Land Management is also responsible for the management of the public domain, including the disposal of land and water rights. The Bureau of Land Management is also responsible for the management of the public domain, including the disposal of land and water rights.
