GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS TO ESTATE REPRESENTATIVES

(Conservator, Guardian, Administrator, or Executor)

You have been appointed a Representative of an estate by this Court. Upon qualification as such Representative you become an officer of the court and assume certain duties and obligations. An attorney is best qualified to advise you regarding these matters, but you should clearly understand the following:

1. In managing the property of the estate you have several duties: you may not profit from your position as a representative or, without prior court hearing and order enter into any financial transaction with the estate. You must manage the estate's assets with the care of a prudent man dealing with the property of another. You must be cautious and you may not speculate.
2. You must keep the money and property of this Estate separate from your own, and must never commingle them with your own or other property. When you open a bank account for the funds, it must be in the name of the Estate, by its fiduciary (yourself). The securities of the Estate must also be held in the name of the Estate. In a minor's guardianship, with more than one ward, you must keep a separate ledger account of all property belonging to each ward and all receipts for and disbursements from each such account. The surety who posted your bond guaranteeing the Estate against loss may require that its representative, or your attorney, join with you in signing checks or other orders for withdrawal of money from the bank.
3. A parent is not entitled to use a minor's property for the support of such minor. The Court may permit you to make certain payments from the minor's funds after a hearing on a petition filed by you, but you may not use the money until a court order is signed. As the Representative, you must not spend the Estate's money until you have received permission from the Probate Court to do so. If you do not obtain such permission, you will be surcharged for same, i.e., you will have to reimburse the Estate from your funds. (There are exceptions, such as approved Creditors' Claims or tax payments. However, consult your attorney before paying these.)
4. You may reimburse yourself for official court costs paid by you to the County Clerk and for the premium on your bond. You may not pay fees to your attorney or to yourself without prior order of court.
5. Within 3 months after your appointment you must file with the court an inventory of all money and other property belonging to the Estate and held by you. You must arrange to have a court-appointed Referee fix the value of such property, and the Inventory and Appraisal must then be filed with the court. (The Representative, rather than the Referee, determines the value of certain "cash items" and your attorney will advise you as to this procedure.)
6. After you have qualified as an Estate Representative, you must file an account annually (or as often as the court directs) which shows all property you have received during the year, and what you have spent. You must describe in detail what you have left after the payment of expenses ("balance on hand").
7. You must obtain the court's permission to sell, lease, mortgage or invest the property of an Estate. Application for such permission is usually made by your attorney.

It is important that you cooperate with your attorney at all times so that he may assist you in carrying out the responsibilities entrusted to you. When in doubt, contact him.

SUPERVISING PROBATE JUDGE

I have read and understand the above instructions.
