1. The first step is to identify the problem. In this case, the problem is that the company is not meeting its sales targets.

2. The second step is to analyze the problem. This involves identifying the causes of the problem and determining the impact of the problem on the company.

3. The third step is to develop a solution. This involves identifying the actions that need to be taken to address the problem and determining the resources that will be required.

4. The fourth step is to implement the solution. This involves putting the solution into action and monitoring the results.

5. The fifth step is to evaluate the results. This involves comparing the actual results with the expected results and determining the effectiveness of the solution.

6. The sixth step is to make adjustments. This involves making any necessary changes to the solution to improve its effectiveness.

7. The seventh step is to document the results. This involves recording the results of the solution and the actions taken to implement it.

8. The eighth step is to communicate the results. This involves sharing the results of the solution with the relevant stakeholders.

9. The ninth step is to review the process. This involves evaluating the overall process and identifying any areas for improvement.

10. The tenth step is to implement the improvements. This involves putting any identified improvements into action.
